

Valentine's Day Mad Lib

[1._____] and [2._____] decided it would be fun to create a tradition to celebrate Valentine's Day each year.

It would take place in/at [3._____]. To make it a little bit fancy, they would wear matching [4._____] and [1._____] would put on their best [5._____].

[1._____] thought their tradition should include visiting [6._____], because this place reminded him/her of the time they went on a date and chatted all night about [7._____] and [8._____].

[2._____] thought that their tradition could include writing each other a/an [9._____] poem, or perhaps a [10._____] letter.

[1._____] also wanted to exchange gifts, something small like a [11._____] or a [12._____], as a token of their feelings.

[1._____] knew that whatever they got [2._____], it would have something to do with [13._____], because that was [2._____]’s favorite.

[2._____] decided to start the tradition off with a poem they had written. It went like this: “Roses are [14._____], Violets are [15._____], Love is [16._____], On this day so [17._____].”

[1._____] declared it the [18._____] poem they had ever heard! [2._____] felt pleased and a little bit [19._____]. Together, they couldn’t wait to continue the rest of this new and [20._____] tradition.
