

Bible Mad Lib

It was Sunday and [1_____] was going to church with his/her [2_____] family. As they walked into the church and sat down on wooden [3_____], the pastor began his sermon.

“Good morning, [4_____] congregation. Have you ever felt completely [5_____] by a task set before you? Looked at a challenge and thought ‘[6_____]’? We all face moments when our inadequacies scream louder than our [7_____]. This feeling is not new; it is the very human experience, and one we see clearly in the life of the prophet [8_____].”

“God provides us with a powerful reminder,” said the pastor.

“Do not be afraid of [9_____], for I will be with you to deliver you,” declares the Lord. Then the Lord reached out his [10_____] and touched my [11_____] and said to me, “I have now put my [12_____] in your [11_____].” ([8_____] 1:8–9)

As the sermon ended, [1_____] couldn’t help but feel [13_____]. That night [1_____] took out his/her Bible and prayed by his/her [14_____].

“Oh Lord, guide my [15_____] and fill my [16_____] with wisdom today as I go about my duties. Keep me safe from all [17_____], and let my [18_____] give thanks for Your grace. Amen.”

And with that, [1_____] went to sleep feeling [19_____] in the [20_____] love of God.
